Message from the Conference

Have you ever wanted to go to General Synod? Just to experience it? It is the biannual meeting for the UCC, and always is an exciting time for our national Church to get together! In addition, it is General Synod that makes the important decisions for our denomination. Generally though, it is held in a place that involves a fair amount of travel from Vermont, and it demands the commitment of quite a bit of time, so if you are not an official delegate, it is hard to justify going. But this year is a different story! You can register for General Synod as a Visitor and be part of it.

General Synod will be held completely online, so there is no travel from Vermont involved. In addition, it is mostly in the evenings for 8 nights, from July 11th-18th, so you don’t need to completely stop everything else you are doing. If you go to ucc.org to check out the agenda for Synod, you will find all kinds of exciting speakers and inspirational worship with great preachers planned. There are also so many great workshops and get togethers that you can be a part of. The theme of General Synod this year is "Rooted in Love", and the Scripture verse is Psalm 1:3a: "They are like trees planted by streams of water, which yield their fruit in its season."

Finally, there are all kinds of activities scheduled each afternoon and evening at Synod for youth and young adults. There are programs, home groups, young adult game night and youth escape room (how do I get to go to that?) And then there is a young adult project. So if you are a youth or young adult, or know of any youth or young adults in your church, please encourage them to check it out-it will be a fun way to connect with others of the same age from around the country!

Hopefully yours,
Paul

TWO SPECIAL EVENTS!!

PRC will be partnering with Jason Moore of Midnight Oil and Convergence, formerly The Center for Progressive Renewal to bring you these two events.
Both/And: Maximizing Hybrid Worship Experiences For Online and In-Person Audiences
Tuesday, June 8, 2021
2:00 - 3:30 PM Eastern
Leader: Jason Moore

As we begin to think about reopening our church buildings, we want to consider how we can create worship for two audiences at the same time: those who are in the pews, and those who are on their couches. How do we keep both audiences engaged so that neither one feels like they’re spectators?

The Online Church Conference with Convergence
Bringing the future of the church into the present.

Join PRC’s own Karen Ware Jackson

The internet is no longer a new idea for the church and it is essential to the future of our faith communities.

What's the difference between "church online" and "online church"?

As churches begin to return back to their sanctuaries, how can we carry our new practices and what we have learned forward and institutionalize them and weave them into the fabric of our ministry and church cultures?

What if TikTok is the newest iteration of telling parables and faith formation could happen 15 seconds at a time?

What does it mean to YouTube your church?

How is social media replacing religious institutions and how can faith leaders capitalize on this reformation moment of transformation into a virtual reality?

Learn more about both events here!

Join us at the National Summit for the largest multi-faith gathering to support equitable and far-reaching vaccine distribution in the United States. Faith leaders and faith-based organizations in attendance will receive training, resources and empowerment to engage their communities to ensure equitable vaccine access, combat hesitancy and potentially use their houses of worship as vaccination sites.

Faith leaders, faith communities, and medical professionals are leading efforts to respond, recover from the unprecedented health crises facing our nation and the world. Now, equipped with a life-saving vaccine, we have the chance to bring this devastating, and all the suffering it has caused, to an end.

Now is the time to partake in open and honest dialogue between faith leaders and county, state and national health officials to identify opportunities for faith-based institutions to further engage and support local communities to increase vaccination rates.

The Hybrid Congregation
(from Alban Weekly- to read more, press any link!)

One of the changes that the pandemic has brought to many congregations is that geographic proximity is no longer a primary factor in determining who participates in our congregational life. A family-sized congregation reports that former members who moved across the country years ago log on most every week to Sunday services. A program-sized congregation has had people participating in worship and Bible study from overseas week after week during the pandemic. A corporate-sized congregation is finding a deepened relationship with a global mission partner because they gather together regularly online -- something they could have done before the pandemic but didn't think to.

As I listened to each of these stories, what I heard from the leaders of these congregations is that they don't want to lose these gifts even as their buildings reopen and in-person activities resume in greater number. They see their future as congregations as hybrid, and they are excited about this prospect. They also know that this will challenge and change the way they have been together.

In this Weekly, we continue thinking about the future of hybrid congregations. First, my colleague Alaina Kleinbeck asks that, as we move into this space, we rethink our past relationship with time for the sake of justice and transformation. John Wimberly, author of the new book Managing Congregations in a Virtual Age, asks us to re-examine our understanding of productivity. Finally, David Brubaker reminds us what won't change about congregations even as we adapt to a hybrid future.

A WILD WALK IN SPRING
By Fred Taylor

Once again it's a beautiful spring day, and I'm out with Charlie for our afternoon walk. I thought I'd go to Kilburn Pond, my favorite hike for such a beautiful day. But when I get to the parking lot, the cars are lined up on the main road, at least 50 of them, so I'm sure the trails are going to be crammed with people. It's the first really beautiful spring day, and a Sunday afternoon, and everyone's gone stir crazy from being isolated at home because of the pandemic. But that's also why I don't want to take Charlie out on this trail – too many people to run into, and he just doesn't understand social distancing.

A friend recently mentioned the Horseshoe Road trail in Pisgah, and it's only another ten minutes up the road, so I decide to give it a try. At the parking lot there are maybe half a dozen cars at most, and several people are sunning themselves in lounge chairs in a field. So these trails will be almost empty.

We head down the main trail, encountering a woman with two young kids trotting along beside her. Then a couple comes by with a dog who wants to play, so Charlie and the dog get to run around a bunch, while the couple orients me to this new trail. They suggest the Lily Pond Trail if I have time for a short loop to get to a nice pond.

On we go with not a soul in sight, and I feel so grateful for this sense of solitude that I've so yearned for. It's hard to find a trail these days where you can just mosey along and not think about running into people. An opening appears in the woods up ahead, and we come to an abandoned beaver pond right beside the trail. We stop for a look and a sniff. I scan the expanse of open water and rough vegetation starting to grow in again, with clumps of blueberry and red leaves left over from last fall. A few young saplings grow up around the edges where the soil's begun to build up. And overhead, the maples have just begun to open their flower heads, those amazing miniature red explosions. Out here in the woods, they're several weeks behind the ones in the cemetery, so they're just popping out. Across the pond the trees hold a faint haze of green where the young leaves are just beginning to unfurl. This landscape feels just right for today: decay and decomposition in the abandoned pond, dead stumps sticking up out of the water with new green appearing around the edges. And overhead the promise of spring once again just beginning to appear. Today's world feels so decaying in so many ways: climate change, coronavirus, and our social patterns totally thrown into chaos. And yet here is the promise of spring emerging around the edges, even out of the midst of decay.

The Racial Justice Task Force Needs You!!

"I joined this group because I've come to realize that all the issues of justice are interconnected, in the spirit of Traci Blackmon's keynote on Crossroads. My own passion is the environment, and you can't separate a healthy environment out from racial justice, since unhealthy environments have disproportionate impacts on communities of color, causing immense suffering. In the group, I appreciate the way we've explored many facets of activism around this issue, ranging from self-examination and book study, to political witness, to community collaborations, and as an activist myself, I've gained insight into the ways these different forms of racial justice advocacy all work together." - Fred Taylor

DISASTER RESPONSE WORK:
HELP REBUILD PHILLY NEIGHBORHOOD

In 2018 and again in 2019, quite a few VT UCC volunteer groups went to help rebuild Puerto Rico after Hurricane Maria. I am hoping to recruit more VT UCC mission teams for rebuilding help again.

I was recently called to re-up as a UCC Partner in Service in order to help with an urgent need in the Philly area, in the Eastwick neighborhood. At the beginning of the pandemic, this lower income area of Philadelphia was hit by Tropical Storm Isaias. Immediate assistance was given, but rebuilding has yet to happen due to Covid. We are now searching for volunteers to come and help rebuild this area (about an 8 hour drive).

We welcome volunteers for 2 or more days (including weekends). We are looking for teams of 2-5 members, 18 years and older, with a skilled team leader. Job assignments can be matched to your skill area. We do not have housing to offer due to Covid and so teams will need to find their own housing. Eastwick is near the Philly airport and therefore also close to many hotels and a direct train service to Eastwick. Eastwick is also an area of great interest with historic sites, a nature reserve and great hiking.

We welcome volunteers and, of course, donations. Please get in touch for more information:

COVID-19 NEWS

In light of: the growing number of Covid-19 infections in Vermont, increased hospitalizations, the onset of flu season, the potential spreading of the disease during holiday gatherings and the advice of our Governor and experts in infectious disease, we strongly urge that worship not be held in person until criteria for safe in person gathers have been meet.

Self-Care in a Pandemic
Resources for resilience support clergy through COVID-19

It’s been almost a year since COVID-19 irrevocably changed United Church of Christ churches.

Members have become ill. Many never recovered. Countless buildings remain closed—some reopening, only to shut down again.

Congregations worship and gather virtually. Clergy have to find ways to cope and carry on. As Americans line up for vaccinations, health experts warn against darker days ahead.

Eleven months of uncertainty. The pandemic is taking an emotional toll on mental health and ministers are not immune.

"As of today (April 19th, 2021), we have some important updates on the current state of the COVID-19 pandemic and congregational singing. Many of you will be aware that a large number of public education organizations have been sponsoring a scientific study out of the University of Colorado Boulder and the University of Maryland. That study has just released another update on their findings and updated their recommendations."

GENERAL SYNOD 2021

Since 1957, when the first “uniting” General Synod gathered in 1957 in Cleveland, Ohio, to the meeting in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 2019, the General Synod of the United Church of Christ has faithfully convened a meeting every two years in physical locations throughout the United States.

2021 will be different. We are moving through a pandemic that has taken many lives. This pandemic has disrupted our routines and many of our well-established practices as we adapt to the new demands for safety and social distancing. The meeting of the General Synod is no different, and the 2021 gathering of the General Synod will take place entirely online.
