Message from the Conference

Dear Beloved Community in the Vermont Conference,

We have entered into a season of Thanksgiving. Perhaps this year will be especially challenging as we and our world seem so burdened with grief in multiple ways: loss of loved ones to COVID, loss of comforting rituals, family and friend gatherings, holiday gatherings and festivals. There is so much polarization, hatred, violence and the threat of violence. People are hungry and homeless. Racism in multiple forms seems on the rise.

And yet, gratitude is a precious and essential part of practicing our faith. I have been thinking about the Jewish Passover song, “Dayenu.” Dayenu means, “It would have been enough.” The song recounts the many ways God has blessed the people, always affirming if God had done just one thing, it would have been enough, but God continues to shower us with blessing upon blessing.

So, in whatever circumstances you find yourself right now, pray for open eyes and ears and hearts to experience the many ways God is present, offering us comfort and hope, laughter in hard times, companions on the journey and love to encircle all.

This year, I am thanking God for each of you, for the churches and pastors of this Conference who have found ways to worship and serve, to support one another in grief and offer holy rest.

What are you thankful for this year?

In gratitude,
Lynn

Housing Crisis in Vermont: The Emergency Housing for the Homeless- Deadline (Dec. 31) is looming!

CALL TO ACTION
Please Call the Governor TODAY
802 828 3333

Right now advocates have taken to the State House steps to demand action and they need your help!

- Fully reinstate and extend the motel program through the winter, and for as long as the federal government will reimburse & until we can transition people to long term safe housing.
- End the 64 day benefit limit that is dangerous & outdated.
- Stop asking Vermonters to trade their shelter for money. If we have the resources, we should do both.
- The Governor must create a cohesive and safe longer-term plan. He must provide notice to the public and to those experiencing homelessness that clearly explains their options and their rights.

Update from Fred Taylor, Environmental Justice Rep.

As we enter the dark times of November, with much news on the climate change front, I wanted to share these two resources that I think you’ll find inspirational.

The first is a very moving speech that renowned naturalist/filmmaker David Attenborough gave at the first week of the COP 26 conference in Glasgow: Sir David Attenborough address to world leaders at COP26 – speech in full - Bing video.

The second is one of a series from Harvard Divinity School, with Terry Tempest Williams interviewing a series of specialists in the environmental field. Next Monday, Nov. 15, at 7 PM she will be interviewing noted environmental writer Elizabeth Kolbert - the conversation between the two should be phenomenal. Note that Pre-registration is required to view this online interview. Weather Reports | Harvard Divinity School (HDS)

AUTUMN BRONZE

By Fred Taylor

As I walk out the front door this morning, I’m met by a wall of burnished gold. The trees today breathe out a magnificent, brilliant sadness that floods my vision and my heart. Charlie walks along happily, wagging his tail and sniffing his way among the scents of the morning, oblivious to the sadness I sense in the landscape.

There’s something about this autumn that’s been especially brilliant and poignant. Perhaps it’s the October warmth, the brilliant sunshine, courtesy of climate change. Perhaps the colors are more brilliant than ever – everyone seems to be saying it’s been a spectacular fall. But then it often seems that way. Today under a grey drooping sky, these late fall colors seem especially intense. We’re past the bright reds and golds of the maples now, into the oaks and beeches, plunging us into a melancholy sea of darkening bronze.

Last month, when the colors were at their peak, each tree in the cemetery had its own unique glow, so I wandered around taking one photo after another, trying to capture the rich colors and shapes of the trees. I took a photo of the tree that I was so entranced with on Good Friday and Easter. Now it was no longer a burst of miniature fireworks with blossoms heralding the coming of spring. Charlene commented that it was her favorite tree this fall, so I tried to capture it from several angles at different stages of the fall. First the leaves began to change up near the top. Then little by little the colors moved down the tree, orange moving in where green had been, while the highest branches let go their leaves and became bare. I always feel a little sad when the leaves get to this point. I love the rich depth of the bronze color, but I ache to hold on to the warmth of summer and brace myself for the starkness of winter. Somehow, today I feel a more intense sadness, as if the flame of these trees is burning a path into my soul.

Terry Tempest Williams captures my mood perfectly in her recent, “Obituary for the Land.” “It is time to grieve and mourn the dead and believe in the power of renewal.”

Live Re-Broadcast of Ruwth: A Chamber Opera by Lotta Suter and Rob Griffin

Please join us on Sunday afternoon November 14th at 4 pm for a Zoom re-broadcast of the premiere performance of Ruwth, a chamber opera with libretto by Lotta Suter and music by Rob Griffin. Premiered at the Longy School of Music in Cambridge MA in October 2014, Ruwth tells the biblical story of Ruth, Naomi and Boaz from the perspective of the community that must overcome their mistrust of foreigners and learn to welcome strangers from another land. Lotta and Rob will host the re-broadcast of the video recording of the premiere performance, directed by Mark Latham with soloists Maria Ferrante, Jayne West and Donald Wilkinson. The 90-minute Zoom event, offered jointly with FCCB, is free and open to all. Please contact Rob and Lotta at griffinsuter@hotmail.com to register and get the Zoom link for the event. For more information on Ruwth, see the article by Lotta Suter in this Corner Chronicle.

FREE ONLINE TRAINING AND INFORMATION FOR CHURCH LEADERSHIP
Church extends beyond any four walls. From human resources concerns to legal questions and property maintenance, Insurance Board offers a variety of resources to protect the church and its ministries. Click here for interactive webcasts that address a wide variety of topics essential to keeping churches and ministries safe; these trainings are led by industry experts from Insurance Board and its partners, including our denominational partners.

Copyright Concerns For Ministries
During these challenging times, ministries rely heavily on the virtual environment and various electronic mediums to share the printed forms of inspiring poetry, quotes from prayer books and daily affirmations, as well as words from songs during worship and through other forms of ministry. As a result, some ministries have been shocked to discover they are actually in violation of copyright infringement; join us as Heather Kimmell General Counsel, United Church of Christ, offers valuable information on how to help your ministry avoid this situation.
